END CAME PEACEFULLY SUNDAY, 11:15 A.M.; WAS UNCONSCIOUS 15 HOURS

Ill Health of the Last Four Years Was Described as the Cause of Death by Dr. Grayson Who Said Indigestion Was Indirect Cause of Dissolution

The War President Knew Before His Last Unconsciousness That the End Was at Hand, and Told Those at Bedside He Was Prepared to Meet His Maker

(By United Press)

Washington, Feb. 4.—Woodrow Wilson died peacefully Sunday.

The spark of life went out at 11:15 a. m. after more than 15 hours of unconsciousness. Dr. Grayson said that his tired heart stopped beating. There was no suffering.

Death had been expected momentarily since Thursday night.

Ill health of the last four years was described as the cause of death by Dr. Grayson who said the direct cause was an attack of indigestion which developed Thursday night. His arteries weakened and finally his heart stopped from utter exhaustion.

Mr. Wilson was ready.

The war president knew before his last unconsciousness that the end was at hand and told those about him that he was prepared to meet his Maker.

When the end came, Dr. Grayson, close friend and personal physician to the war president during and since his residence at the White House, gave out the following statement:

"Mr. Wilson died at 11:15 o'clock. His heart action became feeble and his heart muscles were so exhausted they refused to act any longer. The end came peacefully."

The remote cause of death lies in ill health which began more than four years ago, namely:

"General arterio-sclerosis with haemoptigia. The immediate cause of death was exhaustion, following a digestive disturbance which began early last week and did not reach an acute state until the early hours of February 1."

Mrs. Wilson at His Side

At the home on "S" street Wilson was nursed back to partial health and for the last two years has been active again, but only in a small degree compared with his former energy. Almost every day until last week he was daily on the boulevards of Washington and the country roads about in his automobile. Always at his side was Mrs. Wilson.

Early last week the war president ceased his daily rides. Those who were used to seeing him on his favorite highways missed him.

Thursday night Dr. Grayson was hurriedly summoned from Virginia to be in attendance at his bedside. The president was dangerously ill.

Drs. Fowler and Sterling G. Ruffin were called in consultation and it was announced that Mr. Wilson was in a very serious condition.

No Hope, Doctors Said Friday

By noon Friday the three doctors had agreed and announced that the end was near—only a few hours away. There was no hope, they said.

Thousands of telegrams, letters and cables came to the Wilson home. They were messages of sympathy for Mrs. Wilson who has been indefatigably her husband's companion and nurse since his illness.

As Mr. Wilson passed out of this life thousands throughout the country uttered prayers for the safe keeping of his soul.

Prayers Offered For Him

It was the hour of church service throughout the east and midwest. The whole nation knew that its war chief was dying.

In most mid-west churches, the news came while church services were in progress that Mr. Wilson had passed on. These services were turned into memorials to the man who piloted the United States through the world war and gave his life to the cause for which it was fought—world peace.

In his fervor for a permanent league to abolish war—the League of Nations—Mr. Wilson collapsed while on a tour of the west advocating the league. He returned to Washington a broken man and left the White House in only a slightly improved condition.

A few minutes before the end Mr. Wilson looked out on the street where a throng of men and women had come silently to offer prayer in front of the home. They were kneeling on the pavement, intoning prayers to the God of Love that his soul repose in peace.

Small prayers slipped from their hands, fluttered in the breeze and on each one was inscribed "peace on earth, good will toward men."

That was the theme of Mr. Wilson's life and hope. He struggled to keep the United States from becoming involved in the world war and struggled the harder that the cause of liberty and justice might be victorious when the United States was forced into the conflict.

At the conclusion of the war, Mr. Wilson went to France and with the sole purpose in his heart and mind of bringing the great nations of the world together in spirit and purpose that there would be no more war.

The nations agreed. The league of nations was formed and those who subscribed to the protocol returned to their home land to secure ratification by their peoples.

In France Mr. Wilson contracted influenza. When he sailed for America he had hardly recovered from the effect.

His strength was lagging, but his zeal for the purpose of the league he fostered still remained and he began a tour of the United States to propound the principles which it involved.

He went westward to the Pacific coast, stopping at all the larger cities on the way. Returning he began to lose vigor. The strain of the campaign was too much for him.

In Kansas City he was stricken and taken back to the White House on a cot. Not only had he broken, but for the time at least his cause was lost.

The country refused to sustain the president and did not enter the League of Nations.

Heart Deeply Wounded

It was this as much as anything that prevented the complete recovery of Mr. Wilson. His heart was too deeply wounded to revive from the physical afflictions which came upon him.

As death came into the chamber where he had lain so long on a bed the exact replica of the one in which Abraham Lincoln slept at the White House, his faithful negro servant was at the door; Mrs. Wilson sat on the side of her husband's bed tenderly holding the thin white hand of her dying husband. There was a flutter of his eyelids, an almost imperceptible twitching of the nostrils and the soul of the man passed on.

Nearby, Dr. Grayson, who had felt the last flutter of the pulse, stood as one stricken. Tears coursed down his cheeks and he shuddered as he wrote his last professional word of the man who had been so much to him during the last fifteen years.

FUNERAL SERVICES TO BE HELD WED. AFTERNOON, FEB. 6

ANNOUNCEMENT MADE BY RAYMOND P. BAKER, FORMER MINT DIRECTOR

BELIEVED THAT A STATE FUNERAL WILL BE GIVEN TO FITTINGLY HONOR WILSON

(By United Press)

Washington, Feb. 4.—Funeral services for Woodrow Wilson will be held Wednesday afternoon, Raymond P. Baker, former director of the mint, said today after a visit to the White House.

Baker said details of the funeral were being worked out and would be announced later today.

Secretary of War Weeks visited the Wilson's this morning and it was taken to indicate that Mrs. Wilson had acceded to the wishes of President Coolidge and other government leaders to pay fitting honors to the departed war president by giving him a state funeral. They were awaiting word of Mrs. Wilson's wishes.

Former Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels spent several minutes with Mrs. Wilson and Miss Wilson today.

He said both were holding up bravely.

"The life of Woodrow Wilson was one of complete and beautiful faith," Daniels said.

"He had no more doubt that the things he stood for, which have been broken, would be picked up and mended, and that as the sun, would dawn in the morning. That he died in faith was the beautiful thing about Mr. Wilson's death."

The storm doors of the Wilson home had hardly been thrown open early this morning when the first of the steady stream of callers—high government officials—former associates of the late president, family friends and others began to arrive to leave messages of condolence and sympathy for Mrs. Wilson and Miss Margaret Wilson.

Among the early callers were Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Denby, Associate Justice of the Supreme Court Sutherland, Assistant Secretary of War Phillips and Senator Ball of Delaware.

Later came John Barton Payne, former secretary of the interior; Representative St. George Tucker, who represents in congress Staunton, Va., the birthplace of Mr. Wilson; the Rev. Dr. Taylor, pastor of the Central Presbyterian church, where Mr. Wilson worshipped; Dr. Sylvester W. Beach, who officiated at the wedding of Miss Eleanor Wilson and William G. McAdoo and conducted the funeral services for the first Mrs. Wilson; members of the court of claims; Representative Cordell Hill, chairman of the democratic national committee; Senators Ellison G. Smith and Furnifold Simmons of North Carolina.

To prevent destruction and withering of the floral piece on the door of the Wilson home, it is changed almost hourly.

It is not a crape, but a bunch of bright flowers, jonquils and mignonettes tied with a silk ribbon.

Yellow is the prevailing color. Mr. Wilson loved flowers, especially the vivid blooms of spring.

Senator Joseph Robinson of Arkansas, democratic leader, after a call at the Wilson home, said details of the funeral had not been determined but he believed that the body would lie in state in the capitol.

"I do not know where Mr. Wilson will be buried," Robinson said, "but it will not be in Arlington."

WIFE DECIDES ON SIMPLE FUNERAL

Washington, Feb. 4.—Mrs. Wilson has decided that the body of her husband will be laid to rest with a private and simple funeral.

Rear Admiral Cary T. Grayson, physician and friend of Mr. Wilson, announced the funeral arrangement from the steps of the Wilson home as follows:

Woodrow Wilson

"A brief private service will be held at the Wilson home at 3 o'clock Wednesday, February 6th.

"This service will be followed by a service at 3:30 at Bethlehem chapel to the Washington cathedral.

"After this the body will be placed in the Washington cathedral.

"The services will be conducted both at the house and at the chapel by the Rev. James H. Taylor, pastor of the Central Presbyterian church of Washington where Mr. Wilson attended while president; the Rev. Sylvester Beach who was Mr. Wilson's pastor when he was president of Princeton University and the Bishop of Washington, the Rev. James W. Freeman."

Admiral Grayson said that provision had been made for the body of the late president to lie in state at the rotunda of the capitol as Senator Robinson, minority leader of the senate stated earlier in the day after a call at the Wilson home probably would be the arrangement.

Mrs. Wilson desires that the funeral of her husband be private and simple, Grayson said and there will accordingly be nothing in the way of a state funeral.

The fact that the president is to be placed in the crypt in the rotunda indicated, Grayson stated, that no disposition has yet been reached by Mrs. Wilson as to where the former war president will be permanently interred. Grayson believes the crypt will be only a temporary resting place for his former distinguished patient, but he stated he did not know where the burial will be.

Earlier in the day some of the visitors at the Wilson home stated after leaving the house that they understood Mr. Wilson was not to be buried in Arlington cemetery.

Staunton, Va., where Wilson was born, and Princeton have been among the places mentioned during the last few days as burial spots.

President Coolidge in his proclamation last night directed the Secretary of War and the Secretary of the Navy to accord military and naval honors.

Madrid, Feb. 4.—Sickness has a slave. He is Alfonso XIII, King of Spain. The king loves the sea and would rather walk the bridge of a ship than sit on the throne. But the royal ambitions and the royal stomach don't mix. This was painfully demonstrated on the recent voyage of the Spanish rulers to Italy. His majesty was terribly sick most of the time.

THE ELEMENTS RULED SUPREME TODAY, WIRES DOWN AND RADIO QUIT

Brainerd Sunday got a taste of the sleet storm which swept the country east and south of St. Paul and according to early morning advices blocked communication with Chicago or any points east and south, wires and poles being down.

And even the radio balked. The static conditions were very bad and in fact the ether behaved like a spoiled child.

WIRE COMMUNICATION COMPLETELY PARALYZED

St. Paul, Feb. 4.—A sleet and wind storm that swept out of the northeast last night today completely paralyzed wire communications between the Twin Cities and Chicago.

Only two wires were working spasmodically—a circuitous route.

The storm broke communications all through the region of Eastern Lake Superior, Lake Michigan, Southern Wisconsin and Northern Illinois and Iowa.

STORM ISOLATED MANY CITIES

Chicago, Feb. 4.—Many cities west and north of Chicago were isolated today from telegraph and telephone communication by the worst snow and wind storm of the winter.

Minnesota, Wisconsin, the Dakotas, Iowa and Nebraska were the worst sufferers. Minneapolis, St. Paul and other cities in Minnesota were completely cut off. Lincoln, Hastings, Fremont and other large Nebraska cities were isolated.

Milwaukee received an interrupted service, but the rest of the states received little or no service. The Dakotas appeared to be the worst sufferers.

Des Moines, Iowa, was isolated.

Rain and sleet were responsible for most of the trouble. Wires sagged and many broke under the weight of ice and the pressure of the gale. Many of the cities were in total darkness during the night as electric light wires collapsed. Electric wire poles gave way in many places.

Railroad service was demoralized in some portions of the storm area. Trains were many hours late.

In Nebraska the wind reached a velocity of 50 miles an hour. Huge snow drifts were piled up and unless the storm abates shortly, rail traffic will be blocked. No relief is anticipated until tonight.

The storm is shifting eastward.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE PROCLAIMS 30 DAY PERIOD OF MOURNING

Washington, Feb. 4.—President Coolidge's proclamation on the death of Woodrow Wilson follows:

"The death of Woodrow Wilson, president of the United States from March 4, 1913, to March 4, 1921, which occurred at 11:15 o'clock today at his home at Washington, District of Columbia, deprives the country of a most distinguished citizen, and is an event which causes universal and genuine sorrow. To many of us, it brings the sense of a profound personal bereavement.

In this chosen field he attained the highest rank as an educator, and has left his impress upon the intellectual thought of the country. From the presidency of Princeton university he was called by his fellow citizens to be the chief executive of the state of New Jersey. The duties of this high office he so conducted as to win the confidence of the people of the United States, who twice elected him to the chief magistracy of the republic. NEITHER FRANCE NOR GERMANY PROSPERS ALONE SAYS, MASON

NEITHER COUNTRY IS STRONG ENOUGH TO CRUSH THE OTHER

DESTINIES OF THE TWO COUNTRIES ARE BOUND TOGETHER

By J. W. T. MASON

(Written for the United Press)

New York, Feb. 4.—Germany is steadily improving her economic condition, due to the arbitrary stoppage of reparations payments by the Berlin government, and to stabilization of the currency.

The German people are showing confidence in the ability of their government to outwit the allies in the final reparations settlement.

The most noteworthy indication of the returning self satisfaction of the Germans is the persistent recovery of government bonds on the stock exchange. Individual state bonds also are showing advances. The collapse of Germany so frequently predicted as the result of French pressure along the Rhine and in the Ruhr is no longer regarded as a cause for worry by the German people.

This change in the situation across the Rhine is accompanied by wavering confidence in France's ability to right herself. The previous fall of Germany's own self confidence in herself had bolstered up international belief in France's buoyancy; but now the see-saw is swinging the other way.

Must Work Together

The facts of reality thus point to the unbreakable friendship, industrial and financial, which exists between Germany and France. Under present conditions of uncertainty, both countries cannot prosper and neither can prosper long without the other. When France seems to be getting the upper hand, Germany begins to tremble; and when Germany shows elements of recovery, France sees her financial stability endangered. The whole of the evidence since the beginning of the war shows that neither France nor Germany is strong enough to crush the other and endure in solitary grandeur as the dictator of continental Europe.

Instead, the two countries have demonstrated that their destinies are bound together. Unless the haphazard see-saw of prosperity and adversity is to continue, the Rhenish neighbors must reach a common agreement. If they don't, the bumping of the see-saw with the Rhine as the buck-rope will permanently cripple both.

Ruhr Invasion Fails

This is the lesson now being taught the French and the Germans by the swing back and forth of their fortunes. One year ago France went into the Ruhr and crushed German resistance there. But, instead of this victory resulting to the advantage of France, no sooner was the Ruhr success made complete than the franc began its heavy downward plunge. A 20 per cent increase in taxation for the French people following the Ruhr victory is impressive evidence of the hollowness of such methods of warfare.

The Poincare ministry failed to gain anything for France of permanent value. The various German ministries that have arisen and fallen during the Poincare dictatorship of continental Europe likewise have failed to gain anything permanent for Germany. The battle has been a losing one for both.

In modern life of trade and finance when great stakes are being played for, compromise inevitably follows such a measure of strength. Business men realize the uselessness of battling one another's powers away in vengeful rivalry. This is the course that must be followed by Poincare or his successor if the vicious see-saw is to be ended.

NEITHER FRANCE NOR GERMANY PROSPERS ALONE SAYS, MASON

NEITHER COUNTRY IS STRONG ENOUGH TO CRUSH THE OTHER

DESTINIES OF THE TWO COUNTRIES ARE BOUND TOGETHER

By J. W. T. MASON
(Written for the United Press)

New York, Feb. 4.—Germany is steadily improving her economic condition, due to the arbitrary stoppage of reparations payments by the Berlin government, and to stabilization of the currency.

The German people are showing confidence in the ability of their government to outwit the allies in the final reparations settlement.

The most noteworthy indication of the returning self satisfaction of the Germans is the persistent recovery of government bonds on the stock exchange. Individual state bonds also are showing advances. The collapse of Germany so frequently predicted as the result of French pressure along the Rhine and in the Ruhr is no longer regarded as a cause for worry by the German people.

This change in the situation across the Rhine is accompanied by wavering confidence in France's ability to right herself. The previous fall of Germany's own self confidence in herself had bolstered up international belief in France's buoyancy; but now the see-saw is swinging the other way.

Must Work Together

The facts of reality thus point to the unbreakable friendship, industrial and financial, which exists between Germany and France. Under present conditions of uncertainty, both countries cannot prosper and neither can prosper long without the other. When France seems to be getting the upper hand, Germany begins to tremble; and when Germany shows elements of recovery, France sees her financial stability endangered. The whole of the evidence since the beginning of the war shows that neither France nor Germany is strong enough to crush the other and endure in solitary grandeur as the dictator of continental Europe.

Instead, the two countries have demonstrated that their destinies are bound together. Unless the haphazard see-saw of prosperity and adversity is to continue, the Rhenish neighbors must reach a common agreement. If they don't, the bumping of the see-saw with the Rhine as the buck-horn will permanently cripple both.

Ruhr Invasion Fails

This is the lesson now being taught the French and the Germans by the swing back and forth of their fortunes. One year ago France went into the Ruhr and crushed German resistance there. But, instead of this victory resulting to the advantage of France, no sooner was the Ruhr success made complete than the franc began its heavy downward plunge. A 20 per cent increase in taxation for the French people following the Ruhr victory is impressive evidence of the hollowness of such methods of warfare.

The Poincare ministry failed to gain anything for France of permanent value. The various German ministries that have arisen and fallen during the Poincare dictatorship of continental Europe likewise have failed to gain anything permanent for Germany. The battle has been a losing one for both.

In modern life of trade and finance when great stakes are being played for, compromise inevitably follows such a measure of strength. Business men realize the uselessness of battling one another's powers away in vengeful rivalry. This is the course that must be followed by Poincare or his successor if the vicious see-saw is to be ended.

The death of Woodrow Wilson removes the dominant world figure of the decade from 1910 to 1920. Wilson and Theodore Roosevelt will probably go into history as the leading actors on history's stage during the generation in which they were the culmination.

Only the mature judgment of history can assign Wilson his certain place. He lived and worked and ruled in the years that produced Kaiser Wilhelm, Lloyd George, Clemenceau, Kitchener and other men who occupied whole chapters in world history. He reached the world's summit of applause during the Paris peace conference and his ebb, as broken in body and fame, but not in spirit, he rode down Pennsylvania avenue through the sunshine of March 4, 1921, away from the White House, forever.

Born of stern, unbending Scotch Presbyterian stock, Wilson had much of the cold austerity of Scotland's crags. To him there were only two classes of men—those for him and those against him. He saw no middle ground. Few outside of his immediate circle loved him, and he loved few. Millions admired him for his admitted strength of vision, idealism and indomitable courage. Millions hated him for his intolerance to views other than his own and for the ruthlessness with which he swept aside opposition. His was a lonely, self-controlled personality.

Yet, with body broken and old age creeping fast upon him, his closest friends say he mourned that he could not awaken love in the hearts of the people for whom he felt he had done so much; for whom he had advanced his ideals and for whom he felt he had suffered something akin to martyrdom.

Desired Love

Wilson's political death softened the animosities of ruthless politics and the passing of the ex-president is today mourned by a nation that always had the highest respect for his deep learning, diligent search after truth and unswerving devotion to what he believed were the world's ideals and which he adopted as his own.

In a measure, Wilson was a self-made man. His parentage was sturdy, but poor. His father was a Scotch-Irish Presbyterian minister; his mother, Janet Wilson, the descendant of a family of Scotch Presbyterian ministers noted for their aggressiveness.

Thomas Woodrow Wilson was born Dec. 28, 1856, in Staunton, Va., where his father was pastor. Two years later the family moved to Augusta, Ga., where Wilson spent most of his childhood. He was a normal boy, played baseball on the corner lot, and refused to learn the alphabet until he was nine years old. His early tutors were his father and mother.

At seventeen Wilson began his scholastic career at Davidson College, and in 1875 he entered Princeton University. Here he seems to have moulded those peculiar traits of personality that afterwards set him apart as an individual, as President of Princeton University, Governor of New Jersey and President of the United States.

Wilson's urge to self-expression first took a literary bent. While a student at Princeton, and later while attending the University of Virginia law school, he wrote various pamphlets and articles, mostly devoted to political and humanitarian subjects. Vague idealism combined with an amazing grasp of his subject mark his early writings. Perhaps the best known of his more mature works is a "History of the American People," and "The New Freedom." The latter book is regarded by critics as a masterly presentation of liberal theories of government and economics.

Completing the law course at Virginia, Wilson hung out his shingle in Atlanta, Ga., but clients did not flock to the young attorney, and in 1883 he abandoned the bar and took up a course of special studies at Johns Hopkins University. Here he met James Bryce, then Ambassador from Great Britain, and collaborated with Bryce on his great work on the "American Commonwealth." Undoubtedly, Wilson was greatly influenced by the scholarly and Utopian Englishman.

In 1885 he married Helen Louise Axson of Savannah, Ga., the mother of his three daughters, Margaret, Jessie and Eleanor.

Wilson began his teaching career as professor of history and political economy at Bryn Mawr, which chair he filled for two years, going in 1888 to Wesleyan University for a one-year stay as professor in the same subjects.

Went to Princeton

Back at Princeton in 1890, as professor of jurisprudence and politics, Wilson lectured to crowded classrooms, and in 1892 he was elected president of Princeton University.

Princeton at that time was the home of a large number of clubs composed entirely of the sons of rich men, creating a so-called aristocracy abhorrent to the new president's broad democratic views. After a stiff tilt with entrenched privilege as represented by the gilded student youths, Wilson gained a partial victory, but was never able to liberalize Old Nassau to his liking.

Partly as a result of this fight, which developed into conflict between Wilson and the board of trustees, Wilson resigned the presidency of Princeton and accepted the democratic nomination for Governor of New Jersey.

As executive of New Jersey from 1911 till he was nominated for President by the democratic national convention, Baltimore, July 2, 1912, Wilson amply demonstrated the vigor and independence of his political aspirations, and in some measure manifested the personal aloofness that characterized his later career.

Woodrow Wilson took the oath of office as president on March 4, 1913, after one of the most sweeping triumphs ever known in presidential elections. Factional war in the republican party gave him an overwhelming majority of electoral votes and his party had a majority of five in the senate and held more than two-thirds of the seats in the lower house.

The Mexican Affair

In March, 1915, Wilson authorized mobilization of troops on the border to deal with Villa, the Mexican insurgent.

Mr. Wilson's first wife died Aug. 6, 1914.

In the fall of 1915 the engagement of the president to Mrs. Edith Bolling Galt, of Washington, daughter of William H. Bolling, a prominent Virginia lawyer, was announced.

They were married in Washington on Dec. 18, 1915. This was the third Wilson wedding in the White House, two of the president's daughters having been married there. Miss Jessie Wilson became the bride of Francis Bowes Sayre on Nov. 25, 1913. Miss Eleanor Wilson was married to William G. McAdoo, secretary of the treasury, in May, 1914.

In the meantime, Wilson's notes of warning were unheeded by Germany and Austria, and on Feb. 3, shortly after he had first outlined in a memorable address to congress his plan for a league of nations, Wilson broke off diplomatic relations with Germany. This was in reply to the Kaiser's submarine warfare. On March 16, 1917, Wilson declared a state of "armed neutrality," and a month later, April 2, he demanded that congress declare war on Germany.

From that day until the armistice on Nov. 11, 1918, Wilson bent his energies to defeat Germany, at once taking the position of spokesman for the ing team, sails with Mrs. Leach on January 23 for Chamonix, France. He served as a Colonel in the A. E. F., and met Miss Churcher in France where she was a Y. M. C. A. worker.

He helped bring about unity of command, which ultimately defeated Germany. He pushed through congress gigantic bills for selective draft and governmental food, fuel, telegraph and railroad administration.

Early in 1919 Wilson broke all precedents by going to Paris to participate in the peace conference, from which he returned with both victories and defeats. His fight was far from ended, and after presenting the treaty to congress, he again took the issue to the people, with another 8,000-mile stump-speaking trip for the treaty and the League of Nations.

After speaking once and sometimes twice a day for 23 days, the president suffered a nervous collapse on a train between Pueblo, Colo., and Wichita, Kan., and on orders of Admiral Grayson, his personal physician, he gave up his speaking trip. Cancelling his scheduled Wichita speech, the president was rushed to the White House, where for nearly four months he was kept abed most of the time.

The date of Wilson's "return to power" after his illness probably will go down as Feb. 13, when it was revealed by correspondence given out at the White House he had accused Robert Lansing, secretary of state, of attempting to usurp the president's authority and had practically demanded the secretary's resignation. Lansing retired from the Wilson cabinet, but denied his intentions in calling informal cabinet meetings during the president's illness was for superseding the head of the government.

Public comment on the incident in which Lansing generally was upheld, had hardly died down before President Wilson again caused a sensation in dispatching a note to the allied premiers in session in London, in which he was reported as making a threat to withdraw his concern from European affairs unless a previous decision regarding disposition of Fiume and the Adriatic question was upheld.

Owing to his illness, Mr. Wilson was comparatively inactive to the date of his retirement, when succeeded by Warren G. Harding on March 4, 1921. He retired to his newly purchased home in the national capital and busied himself with his books until death came. While he took little active part in politics or public business, his letters from time to time showed that his keen grip on public affairs had not weakened and his fighting heart was still strong.

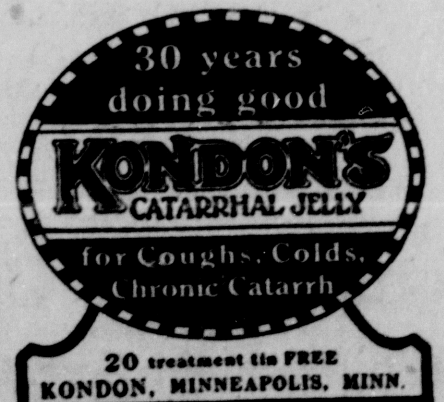

In the fall of 1923, Mr. Wilson received several delegations and several statements by him were broadcasted. He also contributed to magazines.

R. K. Doe, federal naturalization examiner, is in the city today, going over the preliminary work of lining up applicants for naturalization for the May term of the district court.

Heretofore all of the preliminary work has been done at the time the applicants were given their final examination, but the law has been changed, so that only the final questions are asked in district court, thus eliminating a great deal of routine. There will be a large number of applicants for citizenship at the May term, it is thought.

The Paradise butterfly, when first discovered, probably in the heart of Papua first, was very desirable and valuable, a single specimen selling for as much as $150. The scientist who caught the most recent specimens lost his life in the effort, being killed and consumed by cannibals.

THE PASSING OF WILSON

THE world mourns today the passing of ex-President Woodrow Wilson. Mingled with its sorrow is genuine admiration for the spirit shown by him when he met death with a smile. He realized his end was near and so expressed himself to relatives and physicians, but never once did his spirit quail.

His place in history is secure and as the years pass by more will honor him. As America's war president he achieved a remarkable record and his idealism stirred the nation and caused it to lend a helping hand to nations across the sea.

Early Sunday the United Press flashed the death to The Dispatch and various churches were then called up so they could mention it in services and pay a tribute to the late president. County and city officials were also notified. Today flags are flying at half-mast throughout the city on public and school buildings.

TWO "ASBURY" HOSPITALS

THE DISPATCH gives prominence to this communication from the U. S. Veterans Bureau which calls attention to the fact that there are two "Asbury" hospitals and that much confusion in sending mail and even patients has resulted.

United States Veterans hospital No. 68 has inaugurated a campaign to stop people from calling it "Asbury hospital." This name was given to the institution because of the fact the veterans hospital occupies the old Asbury building. The new Asbury hospital was opened recently within several blocks of the veterans' institution.

Many serious mistakes are made in addressing mail and articles to "Asbury" hospital when United States Veterans hospital No. 68 is meant.

LOVE NOTES IN CANDLER CASE

THE art of letter writing was much cultivated in the middle ages when there were no telephones or typewriter machines. In these days one seldom sees much of love letters, in fact the public is quite interested in the perusal of the love notes offered by both sides in the Candler case.

Mr. Candler, in one of his letters, is said to have been highly pleased with the name "Precious One" bestowed on him by a fair lady and mentioned, "I value the multiplicity of your bewitching vocabulary."

Had plaintiff and defendant used the telephone as modern lovers do there would not have been so much evidence introduced. Telephone conversations are evanescent and effervescent affairs while letters are down in black and white.

FRANCE DOES NOT RECOGNIZE SOVIET

FRANCE, like America, would like to see the Russian Soviet pay the past indebtedness of Russia, as a preceding factor in recognition. President Coolidge stated the American situation in his message to congress.

France maintains her previous viewpoint and will not recognize the Russian Soviet government until Russia has recognized the debts of previous regimes to France. British recognition of Russia will make no difference to France. It is the French view, according to the semi-official information, that British recognition was caused by internal conditions in Great Britain, and is not a matter for the concern of France.

EXECUTIVE SESSIONS

WHEN a legislative body or a committee goes into executive session, the doors are locked and the public is kept out. Among the "outs" are also the newspapermen. Details of the meeting are supposed to be kept buried and only the results, if any, are sometimes announced.

Young Nelson will be awarded the medal in recognition of his rescue of Miss Gertrude Wage from the Mississippi river last summer.

BUSES IN NEW FIELD

WHEN the street railway refused to function in Akron, Ohio, a system of bus transportation was evolved. So far it has not begun to solve transportation difficulties. Most of the rubber town's employees were late at work. But the buses claim that with a little time they will soon have buses enough to carry the people.

HORACE H. TEETER, aged 78, accredited the inventor of the coffee percolator, has died. In his younger days he was a railway conductor and it is thought he was led to invent the machine by watching them make coffee at railway eating houses, and seeing the patrons sample it between train whistles. If you have ever eaten at one of those places, you know what a gulp and run affair it is and this popping motion on the part of the passengers is what Teeter reproduced in his percolator.

CHICAGO'S SIX MILLION TEMPLETALLEST CHURCH EDIFICE IN WORLD WILL BE DEDICATED BEFORE EASTER

(By United Press)
Chicago, Feb. 4.—Chicago temple of the First Methodist Episcopal Church, the tallest church edifice in the world, will be dedicated some time before Easter.

The temple was erected at a cost of more than $3,000,000 and is acclaimed a masterpiece in Gothic architecture.

Situated in the "loop," Chicago's densest business district, the sky scraper temple towers 536 feet above the pavement. An immense golden cross at the apex is visible for miles around.

From the street the cross appears a few inches in dimensions. In reality it is 12 feet high and 6 feet wide. At night it will be illuminated by powerful electric lights.

The new church will be used for Americanization schools and patriotic gatherings, according to Dr. John Thompson, the pastor. It is hoped, he said, to make it the hub of protestantism in the middle west.

A statement issued preliminary to the drafting of dedicatory plans, said:

"The true greatness of the Chicago temple will not be that of a successful business enterprise.

"Our great temple, resting on pillars going down over 100 feet to bed rock, with its open doors in this mighty civic center, must grip the city and contradict the false impression that somehow religion is losing out and is on the decline.

"It is to be a dominant tower; a mammoth denial that this age is materialistic and commercial and is in danger of losing God."

The cut-stone in the church's street front amounts to 99 carloads. Sixty carloads were used in the lower while the weight of steel construction in the building is 4,500 tons.

The building contains approximately 200,000 square feet of floor space to be used for commercial and church purposes. Other denominations have established offices there.

The building, together with the real estate, is valued at more than $6,500,000.

PLOT TO PUT CYRIL

WISH TO RETURN TO MON-
ARCHIC REGIME

London, Feb. 4.—A royalist conspiracy to place Grand Duke Cyril on the Russian throne has branches in London and many continental cities and is also said to have agents in the United States.

The affairs of the organization are admittedly directed by the Grand Duke Cyril from his office in Paris and his villa at Nice.

Recently Cyril circulated a proclamation promising control of land by the peasants and liberty of voting power for all workers in Russia.

The agent for the royalist conspiracy in England is M. Thadee Wiltchinsky, who outlined the royalist plans as follows:

"We want to overthrow Bolshevism and establish conditions which will enable every man to record his vote without fear of Bolshevik oppression.

"We have proof that the country desires a return to the Monarchist regime. The Bolsheviks know this, too, and that is why they keep a firm hold on posts and telegraphs and all other means of communication.

"The moment we smash Bolshevism in Moscow, we shall smash Bolshevism throughout Russia. When that is done we shall let the people vote as they please, and if a Russian National Assembly elected under these conditions votes for the re-establishment of the Monarchy, the Grand Duke Cyril will be made Czar. He will accept the will of the people, whatever that may be."

The royalist organization claims that there was a revolt in Moscow last September in the interest of Cyril, when his adherents held the Kremlin for four hours. The plot failed, it is claimed, because the plans of the royalists were betrayed by spies. It is said that many were put to death after this revolt.

Minneapolis, Feb. 4.—Merger of the Jefferson Highway Transportation company, operating 50 buses, with the Mesaba Transportation company, operating 45 buses, to form the largest bus company connecting several cities in the country, was announced Saturday by Clifford G. Details of consolidation will not be completed for several months. For the present the only change in operation will be the institution of through schedules between Minneapolis and Hibbing. Six buses will be added to this run in the spring, he added.

A Life Job

A FEW days ago one of our officials was asked, "How does the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) keep so many of its employees year after year?"

Speaking in a broad sense the answer lies in two words—"Industrial Harmony," gained through the every day practice of the principles of justice, fairness and equity within the organization.

Standard Oil Company (Indiana) employees know that the Company is engaged in a basic industry and that, therefore, continuity of employment is assured.

Every employee who has been in the Company's service for one year, or more, has the privilege of buying stock in the Company, up to 20% of his earnings, on a favorable basis. To every dollar the employee invests in this manner, the Company adds 50c. Thus does the Company provide a plan of assisting employees in accumulating a competence.

A few years ago the Company put into operation an annuity system, providing an income for those employees who have reached old age in the Company's service or who may have been incapacitated while so engaged.

Within the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) there is an internal organization—the Industrial Relations Department—which provides an open channel for men and women to bring their grievances to the attention of the Management for adjustment, and which enables them to have a voice in all matters pertaining to their employment and their working conditions. Since the inauguration of this plan 93.3% of the suggestions submitted to the Management have been made effective.

Therefore, with continuity of employment assured—there, with assistance in acquiring a competence—with provision for income when active work-days are over—and with an open door for submitting grievances, with ample precedent for anticipating equitable adjustment—is it to be wondered at that employees make Standard Oil Company (Indiana) business their life job?

Is it surprising that every Standard Oil Company (Indiana) employee with whom you come in contact, puts forth an enthusiastic effort to render you a full measure of service? The business of the Company is his business.

It is peace of mind within the individual and harmony prevailing throughout the organization that enables this Company to render such superior service as to have gained the respect, confidence and esteem of the thirty million people of the Middle West.

THE PASSING OF WILSON

THE world mourns today the passing of ex-President Woodrow Wilson. Mingled with its sorrow is genuine admiration for the spirit shown by him when he met death with a smile. He realized his end was near and so expressed himself to relatives and physicians, but never once did his spirit quail.

His place in history is secure and as the years pass by more will honor him. As America's war president he achieved a remarkable record and his idealism stirred the nation and caused it to lend a helping hand to nations across the sea.

Early Sunday the United Press flashed the death to The Dispatch and various churches were then called up so they could mention it in services and pay a tribute to the late president. County and city officials were also notified. Today flags are flying at half-mast throughout the city on public and school buildings.

TWO "ASBURY" HOSPITALS

THE DISPATCH gives prominence to this communication from the U. S. Veterans Bureau which calls attention to the fact that there are two "Asbury" hospitals and that much confusion in sending mail and even patients has resulted.

United States Veterans hospital No. 68 has inaugurated a campaign to stop people from calling it "Asbury hospital." This name was given to the institution because of the fact the veterans hospital occupies the old Asbury building. The new Asbury hospital was opened recently within several blocks of the veterans' institution.

Many serious mistakes are made in addressing mail and articles to "Asbury" hospital when United States Veterans hospital No. 68 is meant.

LOVE NOTES IN CANDLER CASE

THE art of letter writing was much cultivated in the middle ages when there were no telephones or typewriter machines. In these days one seldom sees much of love letters, in fact the public is quite interested in the perusal of the love notes offered by both sides in the Candler case.

Mr. Candler, in one of his letters, is said to have been highly pleased with the name "Precious One" bestowed on him by a fair lady and mentioned, "I value the multiplicity of your bewitching vocabulary."

Had plaintiff and defendant used the telephone as modern lovers do there would not have been so much evidence introduced. Telephone conversations are evanescent and effervescent affairs while letters are down in black and white.

FRANCE DOES NOT RECOGNIZE SOVIET

FRANCE, like America, would like to see the Russian Soviet pay the past indebtedness of Russia, as a preceding factor in recognition. President Coolidge stated the American situation in his message to congress.

France maintains her previous viewpoint and will not recognize the Russian Soviet government until Russia has recognized the debts of previous regimes to France. British recognition of Russia will make no difference to France. It is the French view, according to the semi-official information, that British recognition was caused by internal conditions in Great Britain, and is not a matter for the concern of France.

MRS. M. A. BRONSON IS "GODMOTHER"

Merrifield Matron Organizes Chapter
Daughters of American
Revolution

INSTITUTION CEREMONIES

Brainerd Chapter to be Known as
Samuel Huntington
Chapter

A chapter of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution was formally organized on Thursday January 31st, at the home of Mrs. F. S. Parker. The organizing regent, Mrs. M. A. Bronson, of Merrifield, had charge of the meeting.

As "Godmother" she presented to the chapter a handsome silk flag which is the emblem of the society and which is required to be conspicuously placed at each meeting. With the presentation, Mrs. Bronson offered a toast which was originally given in Shanghai. After the British consul had toasted the British flag as "The flag on which the sun never sets," an American replied, "Here's to the Stars and Stripes of the new republic where the setting sun lights upon her stars in Alaska, the rising sun salutes her on the rock-bound coast of Maine the flag of liberty, never lowered to any foe, and the only flag that ever whipped the flag upon which the sun never sets."

Each division of the society has a name of historical interest. This division is to be known as the Samuel Huntington Chapter. Samuel Huntington was a signer of the Declaration of Independence from Connecticut and offered indisputable loyalty and service to his country. It seems a strange coincidence that a descendant, Prof. George Huntington, of Carlton College, with his wife, should have stopped many times at Mrs. Bronson's home. The wigwag, and that later she as regent should have the name suggested from a far distant source as the name of the chapter organized under her direction. Prof. Huntington is the author of "Nokomis," a novel portraying life in the early days around St. Anthony Falls, now a part of Minneapolis.

The gavel used by Mrs. Bronson was carved by her nephew, a lieutenant in the photograph corps, for her use in these meetings. The wood was originally part of a German airplane brought down by an American.

The organizing regent automatically becomes the president or regent of the chapter for its first year and appoints the officers for her first term. The following appointments were announced:

Vice Regent—Mrs. R. T. Campbell.

Recording Secretary—Mrs. Lou Knudsen.

Treasurer—Mrs. M. K. Swartz.

Registrar—Mrs. J. M. Hayes.

Corresponding Secretary—Mrs. E. T. Fleener.

Chaplain—Mrs. L. P. Treglawny.

Historian—Mrs. F. W. Wieland.

Color Bearer—Mrs. J. R. Smith.

As is the custom at every meeting of the society, "America" and "The Star Spangled Banner" were sung.

The Lord's Prayer and the American's Creed were recited, the salute to the flag given and the oath of the society taken.

Members of the newly organized chapter, in addition to the officers enumerated above, include Mrs. Angus Murry, Mrs. H. C. Hughey, Miss Mary Hughey, Mrs. Irma C. Hartley, Mrs. Grace Hayes Mee of Duluth, Mrs. W. H. Gemmell, Mrs. C. H. Kylio, Mrs. Carl Hanson, of Hastings; Mrs. Irma Parker Brown, of Rochester; Miss Nellie Emerson of St. Paul, and Mrs. F. S. Parker.

Others present as guest who are eligible to become members were Mrs. W. A. M. Johnstone, Mrs. O. J. Bouma and Mrs. C. H. Mills.

While it is required of each member that she have a direct ancestor who was a soldier in the Revolutionary War, the society has a far broader and nobler object than the glorification of one's family.

It was incorporated by an act of congress of the United States in 1895 and now has more than 175,000 members. Its object as stated in the act of incorporation is to carry on "Patriotic historical and educational work; to perpetuate the memory and spirit of the men and women who achieved American independence, by the acquisition and protection of historical spots and the erection of monuments."

"By the encouragement of historical research in relation to the Revolution and the publication of the results; by the preservation of its results; by the preservation of documents and relics, and of the rerecords of the individual services of Revolutionary soldiers and patriots, and by the promotion of celebrations of all patriotic anniversaries; to carry out the injunction of Washington in his farewell address to the American people, 'To promote as an object of primary importance, institutions for the general diffusion of knowledge, thus developing an enlightened public opinion and affording to young and old such advantages as shall develop in them the largest capacity for performing the duties of American citizens; to cherish, maintain and extend the institutions of American freedom; to foster true patriotism and love of country, and to aid in securing for mankind all the blessings of liberty.'

Mrs. R. T. Campbell and Mrs. Clyde E. Parker assisted in serving delightful refreshments at the close of the meeting.

COMMON SENSE IN HEALTH PROBLEMS

Topic of Dr. Wild of Minnesota Public Health Association Speaking at High School

PROPER CARE OF CHILDREN

Ended With a Discussion of Tuberculosis and Cancer People 20 to 40 Susceptible (Contributed)

Thursday evening a large and interested group met at the high school to listen to Dr. Wild. Mrs. W. C. Mannis working with the health committee of the parent-teachers associations and of the Musical club, had sent notices to parents through the public and parochial schools and through the courtesy of the Dispatch had advertised the talk.

Dr. Wild of the Minnesota Public Health Association took as his theme the application of common sense to health problems. He gave many practical suggestions for the care of the body from infancy to old age, and did so well and told such interesting stories that the time passed quickly.

He spoke of the proper care of children and that milk and green vegetables should be used in greater proportion than present to build up the body and prevent constipation; that a child should not be pampered in its diet but eat whatever is put before him; that few children are undernourished from the lack of enough food, but of the proper kind; that teatils should not be removed unless diseased but always then; that the "baby teeth" should be cared for; that adenoids should always be removed, and that a child should be dressed warm enough when he goes out, but that he should not be too warmly dressed in a warm house. He spoke of the treatment of diphtheria and anti-toxin.

Then he gave a tribute to the work of the public health nurse and the child welfare worker and spoke of the excellent record in this county for physical and moral betterment.

He ended with a discussion of tuberculosis and cancer, of the great need for care of tubercular people and the inestimable benefit from the money acquired by the sale of Red Cross seals. The economic loss from the death of parents at the time when they are needed most was stressed, as the years from 20 to 40 are the ones when more people fall victims to the plague than at any other time. If the school and county nurses are able to save just a few lives they more than justify the money outlay.

Cancer should be considered without panic. If lumps on the body continue for several weeks, a doctor should be consulted for it it should be cancer the sooner it is remedied, the better. However, every bruise should not be worried over for fear it may be cancer.

In addition to the talk, Mrs. John H. Krekelberg and A. C. Mraz sang solos. They are always enjoyed and always thoroughly appreciated. They responded to the enthusiasm of the audience with encores. Mrs. Walter F. Wieland accompanied them on the piano in her always efficient way.

MRS. M. A. BRONSON IS "GODMOTHER"

Merrifield Matron Organizes Chapter
Daughters of American
Revolution

INSTITUTION CEREMONIES

Brainerd Chapter to be Known as
Samuel Huntington
Chapter

A chapter of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution was formally organized on Thursday January 31st, at the home of Mrs. F. S. Parker. The organizing regent, Mrs. M. A. Bronson, of Merrifield, had charge of the meeting.

As "Godmother" she presented to the chapter a handsome silk flag which is the emblem of the society and which is required to be conspicuously placed at each meeting. With the presentation, Mrs. Bronson offered a toast which was originally given in Shanghai. After the British consul had toasted the British flag as "The flag on which the sun never sets," an American replied, "Here's to the Stars and Stripes of the new republic where the setting sun lights upon her stars in Alaska, the rising sun salutes her on the rock-bound coast of Maine the flag of liberty, never lowered to any foe, and the only flag that ever whipped the flag upon which the sun never sets."

Each division of the society has a name of historical interest. This division is to be known as the Samuel Huntington Chapter. Samuel Huntington was a signer of the Declaration of Independence from Connecticut and offered indisputable loyalty and service to his country. It seems a strange coincidence that a descendant, Prof. George Huntington, of Carlton College, with his wife, should have stopped many times at Mrs. Bronson's home, The Wigwam, and that later she as regent should have the name suggested from a far distant source as the name of the chapter organized under her direction. Prof. Huntington is the author of "Nokomis," a novel portraying life in the early days around St. Anthony Falls, now a part of Minneapolis.

The gavel used by Mrs. Bronson was carved by her nephew, a lieutenant in the photograph corps, for her use in these meetings. The wood was originally part of a German airplane brought down by an American.

The organizing regent automatically becomes the president or regent of the chapter for its first year and appoints the officers for her first term. The following appointments were announced:

Vice Regent—Mrs. R. T. Campbell.
Recording Secretary—Mrs. Louis Knudsen.

Treasurer—Mrs. M. K. Swartz.
Registrar—Mrs. J. M. Hayes.
Corresponding Secretary—Mrs. E. T. Fleener.

Chaplain—Mrs. L. P. Treglawny.
Historian—Mrs. E. W. Wieland.
Color Bearer—Mrs. J. R. Smith.

As is the custom at every meeting of the society, "America" and "The Star Spangled Banner" were sung the Lord's Prayer and the American's Creed were recited, the salute to the flag given and the oath of the society taken.

Members of the newly organized chapter, in addition to the officers enumerated above, include Mrs. Angus Murry, Mrs. H. C. Hughey, Miss Mary Hughey, Mrs. Irma C. Hartley, Mrs. Grace Hayes Mee of Duluth, Mrs. W. H. Gemmell, Mrs. C. H. Kylio, Mrs. Carl Hanson, of Hastings; Mrs. Irma Parker Brown of Rochester; Miss Nellie Emerson of St. Paul, and Mrs. F. S. WHY BABE RUTH CUT OUT ROUGH STUFF

By HENRY L. FARRELL
United Press Sports Editor

New York, Feb. 4.—Babe Ruth, getting ready for another big season, has been chopping wood, tilling the soil and minding the chickens, since he deposited his world's series money and his end of a few exhibition games.

From all evidence the reform that the Babe announced this time last year "took." For personages of the prominence, the means and the disposition of the Babe, reforms seldom "take."

Ruth caught himself, however, before he had dissipated to the danger line, and as long as he grants permanence to his resolutions to attend strictly to the business of playing baseball, he will have many more seasons as the greatest of the ball players.

Ever since Ruth was made to see the error of his ways, fans and professors have been curious to know who are and what was responsible for his reformation.

Frank Baker, the former home-run king, according to a story that was told recently, was really the one who got the Babe back on his feet. Baker was a star before the day of the big money, but he was sober in his habits and saving in his ways, and he is now financially fortified for the future.

Baker lectured the Babe constantly on the wisdom of saving his money, but the Babe had plenty and he saw piles coming in, so the advice of his friend did not take.

Turning to the ponies for amusement, Ruth was "taken" for everything he had, and he went $30,000 "on the nut." He started to slip as a player, and the source of his revenue was threatened.

After having the lessons that Baker pleaded to him rather alarmingly illustrated for him, Ruth then turned over, and he hasn't flopped back.

Although he did not make any slugging records last season, Ruth had his biggest year, and he won the prize as the most valuable player in the American League. To a player who loves glory as much as the Babe does, the award of that prize to him was more than new records and a lot of money.

The Babe may not break his home-run record next season, and it is probable that he will not. He does not like the right field layout of the New Yankee stadium, and he is bothered by the mental belief that he can't hit in his home park.

He is keen about the Polo Grounds, and he said he felt sure if the Yanks had played all their home games on the National League grounds last season he would have hit seventy homers.

Ruth also has changed his batting style. He is secure as the home-run record holder, and he is satisfied with the mark he has established. He wants to have at least one season as the champion batsman of the league, and it is almost certain that he will confine his attention to beating Harry Heilmann next season for the championship.

SOMEONE IS LYING ABOUT ME TO FIRPO SAYS TEX RICKARD

New York, Feb. 4.—Information received several days ago that Luis Angel Firpo, South American heavy-weight, had broken relations definitely with Tex Rickard, the promoter, who put him in the way of making $300,000, was practically verified here Saturday.

Rickard would not admit that Firpo had declared him out on his future business dealings in this country, but he was willing to say that "it looks like someone has been knocking me to Firpo."

Until he received information that Firpo was seriously considering the offer of $250,000 to meet Harry Wills made by a mysterious New York syndicate, Rickard did not give the subject much attention.

Asked Chance to Make Offer
Then Rickard cabled Firpo to postpone any intention he had of closing with the syndicate until Rickard had an opportunity to present his best offer.

Firpo cabled back, in words to the effect, "Don't count me in on any of your plans."

Rickard, last Thursday, sent the following message to Firpo:

"I will equal any offer made to you for a Wills fight by a legitimate promoter when I offer the same terms."

Although he did not reply directly, Firpo then issued the statement in Buenos Aires that he had decided to accept the offer of the syndicate and would not consider Rickard's offer.

Tex Is Philosophical
Rickard is very philosophical and he has not much room in his system for sentiment, but he does think it peculiar that Firpo, who came to this country as a tramp and was pushed into a fortune in less than a year's time, should turn his back on a benefactor without giving him a chance.

Firpo, it is said, felt unkindly toward Rickard after the Dempsey match had been made. Firpo was willing to agree to any plans made by Rickard and he was willing to fight Dempsey until his friends told him he was pushed to slaughter by Rickard.

Firpo tried to crawl out of the Dempsey match when it was too late. Rickard felt that Firpo was as ready then for Dempsey as he ever would be, and if he got cold feet then he would get them even colder if the fight was postponed.

CRACK CANADIAN HOCKEY SEXTET DEFEATS U. S. A.

(By United Press)
Chamonix, France, Feb. 4.—The United States hockey team went down to defeat at the final game of the hockey series at the hands of Canada's crack sextet, 6 to 1, yesterday.

The team work of the Canadians was superior to the individual play the Americans displayed.

The United States team secured their lone tally when Drury took the puck from the face-off and skating through the entire Canadian team netted the rubber.

Anders Haugen, star of the American team went into the lead among the ski jumpers. He made 49 meters in his first attempt, and 50 in his second.

Ragnar Omtvedt, one of the American ski jumpers, was believed to have been seriously injured this morning on his first attempt down the now notorious "suicide slide." He got a very bad fall and was rushed to treatment. The extent of his injuries could not be ascertained by casual examination.

AMERICA IN THIRD PLACE AT CHAMONIX

(By United Press)
Chamonix France, Feb. 4.—America jumped back into third place in the Olympic winter games here today when Anders Haugen, American star, pulled a tremendous surprise by winning the long ski jumping contest with a jump of 50 meters.

Haugen made the winning jump on his second trial.

Norway cleaned up all other points in the contest and increased their lead so that she seems certain of winning the winter games.

Thaw and Bonna of Norway tied for second with a jump of 49 meters and Haugen and Lamwek of Norway tied for fourth with 44½ meters.

Haugen's victory was a complete surprise as it was thought Norway would have their way in all of the ski jumps.

Earl Sande Tops Mark of All Other Jockeys

A baseball player is worth what he can draw into the gates and that is usually determined by his artistic playing ability. If a jockey is measured in worth by what he wins for his employers, Earl Sande is what is domestically termed "a good provider." Sande won $444,125 during the season, which tops the records of all other American jockeys.

Romp With Waitress Ends When Wife Rules 'Out of Order'

New York, Feb. 4.—The French liner Savoy is being slammed around the north Atlantic in the usual winter frolic of the tumbling seas, but among those who are not enjoying the sport are James Gough and his girl friend, Julia Howell. James is a motion picture man. Miss Howell is said to have been a waitress in a Broadway hotel.

Gough and Miss Howell clattered daily down to the ship in a tax, picked a course through the shoals of lower town traffic and jangled onto the dock as the coughing forecastle engine hoisted the last grab of dunnage off the dock and dumped it through the hatch.

"Come on, honey," said Gough, or something like that. "Show a lot of alacrity." And he helped her to the gangplank, waving the passports at the state department men on station there.

Har! Har! to say nothing of 10 or 11 tee-hees. It was the voice of a determined woman.

"What?" exclaimed Gough, "You here?"

"Here in person," responded Mrs. James Gough, for it was none other. "Officer, arrest that man."

A traffic policeman arrested Gough on his wife's complaint.

Miss Howell's brown eyes swam with salt spray that didn't come from the sea. Her little mouth sagged at the corners and in a moment a severe emotional storm, accompanied by a cold wave of scorn from Mrs. Gough, was sweeping the entire geography of Gough's little traveling companion.

"I wouldn't feel half as bad if you hadn't picked out a—thing like that to run off with," said Mrs. Gough, pointing to Miss Howell.

William S. Hart, Kathleen O'Connor and James Farley in a scene from the Paramount Picture "Wild Bill Hickok."

The admirers of William S. Hart, Paramount star, who retired from the screen nearly two years ago, fairly packed the Lyceum theatre yesterday, when his new western picture, "Wild Bill Hickok," which signaled his return to the screen in response to popular demand, was presented. Mr. Hart not only plays the star part in this picture, but he is author of the story and he supervised its production. The result is a typical Hart western thriller of the most approved pattern.

The support is excellent. Ethel Grey Terry as Calamity Jane is as appealing as she is artistic, while Kathleen O'Connor, a charming player, provides the heart interest of the story. Many celebrated frontier characters are ably impersonated by James Farley, Jack Gardner and other capable players. It is showing again tonight and Tuesday.

ODD FIRE ESCAPES AT THE WHITE HOUSE

Devices on Roof Look Like Miniature Howitzers.

Millions of visitors from all parts of the world have made pilgrimages to the White House in Washington, but few of them have inspected any of its mechanical marvels.

Although neither lightning rods nor fire escapes are visible from the outside, they are there just the same, but in such strange forms that they hardly would be recognized, even if seen. The fire escapes, for example, look for all the world like miniature howitzers mounted on the roof of the executive mansion for the defense of the edifice. Weighing two hundred pounds apiece and anchored from a balcony by means of extendable steel arms, the metal drums would never attract the attention of anyone hunting for steel ladders, safety ropes or exit elevators. Pulling the chain at the bottom of the cylinders causes them to open and release an endless chain that fastens around the waist and then slowly lowers the load to the ground.

Science also has armored the White House against the dangers of lightning, approximately twenty-five hundred feet of wire being strung across the chimneys and guard wall on the roof. The arrangement is such that if any balls of fire are flung from the skies the lightning wires deflect them into the ground. Then there is an attractive, screened sleeping porch. This skyline bedchamber, however, is not for the use of the President. It is eighteen feet square and was erected exclusively for White House attendants.

Another prominent accessory on the roof is known as the President's flagpole and is used wholly for the display of "Old Glory."

A mammoth lamp which is six feet high and two and one-half feet in diameter—a large man can stand erect within it as he cleans the globe—is the faithful beacon which illuminates the main entrance to the mansion. Popular Mechanics.

GRANDMA USED SAGE TEA TO DARKEN HAIR

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, streaked or gray. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound at any drug store all ready for use. This is the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hairs have disappeared, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant.—Advt.

FANNING WITH ARRELL

WHY BABE RUTH CUT OUT ROUGH STUFF

By HENRY L. FARRELL
United Press Sports Editor

New York, Feb. 4.—Babe Ruth, getting ready for another big season, has been chopping wood, tilling the soil and minding the chickens, since he deposited his world's series money and his end of a few exhibition games.

From all evidence the reform that the Babe announced this time last year "took." For personages of the prominence, the means and the disposition of the Babe, reforms seldom "take."

Ruth caught himself, however, before he had dissipated to the danger line, and as long as he grants permanence to his resolutions to attend strictly to the business of playing baseball, he will have many more seasons as the greatest of the ball players.

Ever since Ruth was made to see the error of his ways, fans and professors have been curious to know who are and what was responsible for his reformation.

Frank Baker, the former home-run king, according to a story that was told recently, was really the one who got the Babe back on his feet. Baker was a star before the day of the big money, but he was sober in his habits and saving in his ways, and he is now financially fortified for the future.

Baker lectured the Babe constantly on the wisdom of saving his money, but the Babe had plenty and he saw piles coming in, so the advice of his friend did not take.

Turning to the ponies for amusement, Ruth was "taken" for everything he had, and he went $30,000 "on the nut." He started to slip as a player, and the source of his revenue was threatened.

After having the lessons that Baker pleaded to him rather alarmingly illustrated for him, Ruth then turned over, and he hasn't flopped back.

Although he did not make any slugging records last season, Ruth had his biggest year, and he won the prize as the most valuable player in the American League. To a player who loves glory as much as the Babe does, the award of that prize to him was more than new records and a lot of money.

The Babe may not break his home-run record next season, and it is probable that he will not. He does not like the right field layout of the New Yankee stadium, and he is bothered by the mental belief that he can't hit in his home park.

He is keen about the Polo Grounds, and he said he felt sure if the Yanks had played all their home games on the National League grounds last season he would have hit seventy homers.

Ruth also has changed his batting style. He is secure as the home-run record holder, and he is satisfied with the mark he has established. He wants to have at least one season as the champion batsman of the league, and it is almost certain that he will confine his attention to beating Harry Heilmann next season for the championship.

SOMEONE IS LYING ABOUT ME TO FIRPO SAYS TEX RICKARD

New York, Feb. 4.—Information received several days ago that Luis Angel Firpo, South American heavy-weight, had broken relations definitely with Tex Rickard, the promoter, who put him in the way of making $300,000, was practically verified here Saturday.

Rickard would not admit that Firpo had declared him out on his future business dealings in this country, but he was willing to say that "it looks like someone has been knocking me to Firpo."

Until he received information that Firpo was seriously considering the offer of $250,000 to meet Harry Wills made by a mysterious New York syndicate, Rickard did not give the subject much attention.

Asked Chance to Make Offer

Then Rickard cabled Firpo to postpone any intention he had of closing with the syndicate until Rickard had an opportunity to present his best offer.

Firpo cabled back, in words to the effect, "Don't count me in on any of your plans."

Rickard, last Thursday, sent the following message to Firpo: "I will equal any offer made to you for a Wills fight by a legitimate promoter when I offer the same terms."

Although he did not reply directly, Firpo then issued the statement in Buenos Aires that he had decided to accept the offer of the syndicate and would not consider Rickard's offer.

Tex Is Philosophical

Rickard is very philosophical and he has not much room in his system for sentiment, but he does think it peculiar that Firpo, who came to this country as a tramp and was pushed into a fortune in less than a year's time, should turn his back on a benefactor without giving him a chance.

Firpo, it is said, felt unkindly toward Rickard after the Dempsey match had been made. Firpo was willing to agree to any plans made by Rickard and he was willing to fight Dempsey until his friends told him he was pushed to slaughter by Rickard.

Firpo tried to crawl out of the Dempsey match when it was too late. Rickard felt that Firpo was as ready then for Dempsey as he ever would be, and if he got cold feet then he would get them even colder if the fight was postponed.

Chamonix, France, Feb. 4.—America jumped back into third place in the Olympic winter games here today when Anders Haugen, American star, pulled a tremendous surprise by winning the long ski jumping contest with a jump of 50 meters.

Haugen made the winning jump on his second trial.

Norway cleaned up all other points in the contest and increased their lead so that she seems certain of winning the winter games.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hairs have disappeared, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant.—Advt.
